

Republic Day and Basant Panchmi Celebration

Republic Day, One of the most prestigious Days is celebrated proudly by our fellow Citizens. On this day, 26th January, 1950, The Constitution of India came to effect, after years of struggle.

The fellow SRCians also took part in showing gratitude towards our nation on the occasion of 74 glorious years of Republic India and Basant Panchmi.

There was a pearly glow in the sky. The first rays of sunlight lit up the azure. The dawn chorus of melodic birdsong drifted in. The rising sun cast a rosy hue across the morning aurora as the SRCians gathered in the Kund for the unfurling of the School Flag by Chairman Mr. Anil Garg, followed by paying Homage to Goddess Saraswati the Goddess of Knowledge.

The skilled and gifted students of SRCS, expressed their stories with passion and enthusiasm about the struggles of India which included dances, duet and group songs, showing the importance of how grateful we should be for what we are today.

The Principal, Dr. Arvindanabha Shukla, addressed the students and stressed on the importance of understanding the true meaning of being knowledgeable and republic. He urged every student to work with honesty and dedication for both the country and school and praised the efforts of students.

Everyone enjoyed every bit of the program and was filled with patriotism.

Question: What is the holistic development of a student?

Answer: Holistic Development of a student broadly covers three key areas – Intellectual Development, Physical Development and Community Development. Students must develop a habit of reading good books, which helps widen and sharpen their knowledge and thinking skills. Secondly, good physical development benefits student health and helps develop a healthy mind. Students must choose a sport of their choice and play regularly. Finally, students must realize their responsibility towards the underprivileged and actively participate in community development programs; such a service is profoundly satisfying and instils a sense of responsibility among the students.

Students must participate in outdoor events, trekking, sports, nature walks, art & Pottery, and I am impressed with the activities in the Pottery class of SRCS. It is very satisfying to see the results of their creativity.

All these will ensure an all-round holistic development of the students.

Question: How will you define discipline?

Answer: The modern concept of discipline, as per John Davy, prepares students to live in a society without hierarchy. A democratic society where people care for each other, a society that is just and fair.

Talking about Academic discipline- is all about participating in various classroom activities and working with teachers to develop a collaborative environment in the classroom. Students must make discipline a part of their everyday life; for instance, when working on a group project, they prepare a schedule, delegate responsibilities, meet timelines and follow a hierarchy working up to meet outcomes. Furthermore, in practice at SRCS, teachers and students work together as a team adopting an interdisciplinary approach to achieving desired results.

Question: Lastly, what is your message for ISC and ICSE students?

Answer: I wish them all the best for their examination. They must utilize the remaining time to polish their understanding of the respective subjects and do well in the exams.

RANI LAXMI BAI

It was the time
When everyone was coward,
There was a brave girl
Who was overpowered.

A baby in her arms
And a war in front of her,
She was the person
Who gave us freedom.
Once she went to her mother,
Her mother was very brave
She told her
'Never lose your courage.'

She never bowed her head
She died with her head straight up That's what you should do
Never give up
She was the girl

As we lose ourselves in the service of others, we discover our own lives and our own happiness.

— Dieter F. Uchtdorf, German aviator, airline executive, and religious leader

As a part of We Serve club, today 7 students from grade 4 to 8 had received exposure of community service and had an opportunity to interact with the children of Boxa tribal government school. Initially the students were very shy but later they were comfortable playing interactive games to build rapport with the diverse group of children. Being with them they felt grateful and privileged for what they are blessed with.

Forest from Trees

Forests have trees,
And trees have roots,
And roots have the power,
To grow the environment-protecting shoots.

Just as in a plant,
Buds open to form a flower,
In forest roots strengthen to form
trees,
And trees give us an oxygen shower.

Humans don't give value,
To this nature's gift and take it light,
When there will be lack of environmental resources,

People will think of that green sight.

STRESS

We all are familiar with the word stress but do we actually realize the meaning of the word. Stress can be caused by many means, like mental pressure, pressure of academics, the stress of doing well in all your desired aspects. A lot of people have stress, but I believe that we can overcome it by managing our day to day activities, and the most important of all, being happy, we can pick up a certain hobby and we should take out time for our hobby every day, you could listen to music or play a sport of your choice, there are many hobbies. We can manage stress, just by being positive and managing our lives. We can come out of it if only you remember to turn on the light which makes you feel joyous.

FRIENDSHIP

Friendship is something that connects people all over the world with a strong bond and everlasting love. One day the tables might turn and you may find your worst enemy venting her feeling and therefore creating a bond. A person who was once a stranger to you might become your friendly partner.

In life there are always ups and downs so you can you can, with a bit of bad luck find someone who you believed was your true friend to backstab you and make you feel defeated by life. But as the people who have always succeeded in life have said 'friends in your life is a blessing to all of those around you'. An incident comes wandering into my mind as I ponder the answer to a complex question. No it's not $E=mc^2$ or any math's formula to be honest. The question is have I ever faced any such situation in which I realized friendships an important element in one's life.

I remember a story about a young girl called Poona who was very wealthy and was the daughter of a powerful leader. She had a ton of friends but only few of them were true friends. The others were just after Poona for her money and fame. Poona was a kind person so she did not say much when her friends asked for expensive gifts and clothes from costly brands like Dior, Prada, Gucci etc. One day Poona decided to test her friend's loyalty by telling her friends that her dad had gone bankrupt and that day was her last day. She carried her plan out and just a few of friend reassured her and told her to not worry. The others just broke friendship with her at that very moment and started showing attitude. Poona just smiled and told everyone it was a test. The ones to unfriended her just looked down in shame.
